Summary of the Symposium: The world is surrounded by trividha-dukkhas of human beings as well as all living creatures. Many find themselves in a state of confusion, inundated with problems but lacking solutions. This uncertainty leaves them unsure of which direction to take or how to move towards a more positive future. As a result, their lives are often marked by restlessness, unhappiness, and a sense of entanglement. Within this context, the Bhagavad Gita offers profound insights and practical teachings that can address these challenging circumstances. It serves as a message for every person, providing the tools to tackle current dilemmas and forge a path toward a brighter tomorrow.

This sacred text is not merely an “ancient scripture” or just a collection of “spiritual teachings.” It goes beyond the confines of any single religion or ethnicity, presenting divine wisdom meant for all humanity at all times. Its purpose is to equip individuals with the guidance to navigate the persistent challenges of life—such as the cycles of birth and death, pain and suffering, love and fear. Within these pages lies a pathway to liberation from the limitations we often impose on ourselves, allowing one to achieve a state of harmony, inner peace, and the release from grief and anxiety. The eighteen chapters unfold a narrative that mirrors the human experience, illustrating the journey from despair and hopelessness to enlightenment and strength. Each discourse/verse presents invaluable lessons, offering profound insights that encourage introspection and self-discovery. The complexities of life, the universe, and the divine are elucidated in a rare and enlightening way. It addresses the workings of the mind—often the root of our troubles—and shows how to transcend these barriers, discover the path to true happiness, and find peace within the demands of everyday life. The wisdom contained herein is a treasure, ready to enrich our existence and guide us. That is why this valuable text, Srimadbhagavadgita guides us as a manual/model of human life to relieve three types of suffering, to achieve the ultimate goal, to live a proper life in society.
